

November 2019 Monthly Catalogue

Welcome to the November 2019 edition of the NHBS Monthly Catalogue, which lists all new titles added to our website in the last month.

We have a diverse selection of books for birdwatchers and ornithologists this month. Two field guides worth mentioning are second editions of both Britain's Birds: An Identification Guide to the Birds of Great Britain and Ireland, due February from WILDGuides, and the Peterson Field Guide to Birds of North America, due April from Houghton Mifflin Harcourt. A site guide comes in the form of A Birdwatching Guide to the Netherlands, published by Roger White. Two books on bird biology are David Allen Sibley's What It's Like to Be a Bird: From Flying to Nesting, Eating to Singing – What Birds Are Doing, and Why, due April from Knopf, and Flights of Passage: An Illustrated Natural History of Bird Migration, written by the well-known duo of Mike Unwin and David Tipling and due March from Yale University Press. Two guides of more local interest are the new Field Studies Council fold-out Guide to British Bird Tracks and Signs and the Lancashire Bird Report 2018, published by the Lancashire & Cheshire Fauna Society. Lastly, Oxford University Press will publish the paperback of Birds in the Ancient World: Winged Words in April, which has been shortlisted for the 2019 Wolfson History Prize.

There are a number of field guides, faunas and atlases on the horizon for entomologists. WILDGuides will publish Europe's Dragonflies: A Field Guide to the Damselflies and Dragonflies in April, the German publisher Natur in Buch und Kunst will publish The Damselflies and Dragonflies of Iran: Odonata Persica in December, Bloomsbury will publish Ladybird Beetles of the Australo-Pacific Region: Coleoptera: Coccinellidae: Coccinellini in March, and Brill will publish Atlas of the Hoverflies of Greece: \(Diptera: Syrphidae\) in December. Popular science is provided by the London Natural History Museum in April: The Inside Out of Flies, which is written by Erica McAlister who also wrote the popular The Secret Life of Flies.

For other animal groups we can be short this month. On the subject of reptiles there is a reissue of The Dangerous Snakes of Africa, due April from Bloomsbury, while for invertebrates there are two books worth highlighting: Marine Bivalves of Tropical West Africa from the Paris Museum of Natural History, which is in stock now, and the 2-volume set Biology and Evolution of the Mollusca, due December from CRC Press.

There are excellent books on both UK and international flora in the making that will interest botanists. In November the BSBI will publish their 19th BSBI Handbook, Gentians of Britain and Ireland, together with Grassland Plants of the British and Irish Lowlands, while the RHS will publish the Flora of Cambridgeshire. From India comes Orchids of India: A Handbook, available now, while the Instituto Multidisciplinario de Biología Vegetal (CONICET-UNC) in Argentina is publishing the next instalment in the ongoing Spanish Flora Vascular de la República Argentina in November: Flora Argentina, Volume 20\(2\): Dicotyledoneae: Apiales, Aquifoliales, Asterales \(p.p.\), Bruniales, Dipsacales, Escalloniales, Solanales \(p.p.\). Finally, Laurence King is publishing the paperback of Around the World in 80 Trees in February.

On the topic of conservation biology and environmental issues there is a range of books this month. The 2019 version of What Works in Conservation has just been published, as has Fight for It Now: John Dower and the Struggle for National Parks in Britain, which is published by Signal Books. Profile Books will release the paperback of Jeremy Purseglove's Working with Nature: Saving and Using the World's Wild Places in April. A book that bridges conservation and environmental issues is John Marzluff's In Search of Meadowlarks: Birds, Farms, and Food in Harmony with the Land, due April from Yale University Press. Planetary-level concerns are addressed in Mark Lynas's Six Degrees: The 2020 Report, due April from Fourth Estate, Common Sense for the 21st Century: Only Nonviolent Rebellion Can Now Stop Climate Breakdown and Social Collapse written by Extinction Rebellion co-founder Roger Hallam, which is available now, an expanded version of Greta Thunberg's No One Is Too Small to Make a Difference due November from Penguin Books, and Planetary Accounting: Quantifying How to Live Within Planetary Limits at Different Scales of Human Activity, which is due in March from Springer. Lastly, the University of Chicago Press will publish the paperback of All the Fish in the Sea: Maximum Sustainable Yield and the Failure of Fisheries Management in November.

Finally, there is a smattering of noteworthy titles covering a range of disciplines. For ecologists there is Savanna Woody Plants and Large Herbivores from John Wiley & Sons, available now, and Comparative Plant Succession among Terrestrial Biomes of the World, due March from Cambridge University Press. For evolutionary biologists there is Urban Evolutionary Biology, due February from Oxford University Press, while palaeontologists can look out for the paperback of The Dinosaurs Rediscovered: How a Scientific Revolution is Rewriting History, due February from Thames & Hudson. For readers interested in animal behaviour April is the month to put in the diary. David Barrie's Incredible Journeys: Exploring the Wonders of Animal Navigation will be released in paperback by Hodder & Stoughton, while there are two books from Carl Safina coming, an affordable paperback of Beyond Words: What Animals Think and Feel from Profile Books and his new book Becoming Wild: How Animals Learn to be Animals from Oneworld Publications. Environmental history comes from Head of Zeus, who is publishing the paperback of The Fens: Discovering England's Ancient Depths in April, while philosophers (and others) can look forward to the very thought-provoking Natural: The Hidden Influence of Our Oldest Superstition, due April from Profile Books.

As always, if you are looking for a particular title that we do not yet have in our range, or you would like to suggest a title for NHBS to stock, please do get in touch.
