

December 2017 Monthly Catalogue

Welcome to the December 2017 edition of the NHBS Monthly Catalogue, which lists all new titles added to our website in the last month. Several of the larger publishers have released their spring catalogues for next year, so we have a strong list of titles this month

Birdwatchers can look forward to Birds of the Philippines from Harper Collins (April), and two field guides from Princeton University Press: Birds of Prey of the West and Birds of Prey of the East (both May). A paperback version of Simon Barner's The Meaning of Birds is due in May. Oxford University Press will publish Birds in the Ancient World: Winged Words in May, which takes a look at the role of birds in ancient history. The most exciting title, though is Pelagic Publishing's The Ascent of Birds: How Modern Science is Revealing their Story (March).

For botanists, we can offer Lady Tankerville's Legacy: A Historical and Monographic Review of Phaius and Gastrorchis from NHP Borneo of which stock is on its way. Tony Juniper is writing Rainforest: Dispatches from Earth's Most Vital Frontlines (March), and Kew will publish Plants That Kill: A Natural History of the World's Most Poisonous Plants (January). Ivy press, meanwhile, continues their series of large photographic books with The Book of Seeds: A Lifesize Guide to Six Hundred Species from around the World (February). Lastly, for mycologists, we have Myxomycetes: Biology, Systematics, Biogeography and Ecology.

If you are interested in other animal groups, Hedgehog, the next New Naturalist, is currently due for April. NHP Borneo has just published A Taxonomic Guide to the Stick Insects of Singapore, which is the third book in this series, and CABI has announced British and Irish Butterflies: An Island Perspective for May. Herpetologists can look out for Snakes of Europe, North Africa and the Middle East: A Photographic Guide (May) from Princeton, which is a translation of a French field guide.

More general wildlife titles are coming, with The Collins Press publishing Ireland's Seashore: A Field Guide in March and Princeton publishing Wildlife of Madeira and the Canary Islands: A Photographic Field Guide to Birds, Mammals, Reptiles, Amphibians, Butterflies and Dragonflies in May. We also just discovered two interesting guides to underwater life in Southern Turkey: The Diving Guide: Kas and Red Sea in the Med: A View from the Kas. Wildlife travellers have two new Crossbill Guides to look out for, Dordogne, France and Southern Portugal - Algarve and Alentejo (both March)

For palaeontologists, there are two titles to highlight: Siri Scientific Press's Fossils of Folkestone, Kent (January) and Pan Macmillan's The Rise and Fall of the Dinosaurs: The Untold Story of a Lost World (May) from the hand of American palaeontologist Steve Brusatte.

If you fondly remember Princeton's The Unfeathered Bird, you will be very excited by Katrina van Grouw's next book: Unnatural Selection (May) celebrates Darwin's writings on evolution under domestication and is accompanied by her wonderful illustrations. Yale University Press has announced Feats of Strength: How Evolution Shapes Animal Athletic Abilities for May. And we have several titles on biodiversity and conservation: Princeton will publish Theory of Global Biodiversity in May, C Hurst & Co have recently released The Extinction Market: Wildlife Trafficking and How to Counter it, and Global Wildlife Conservation (formerly Conservation International) have published Back from the Brink: 25 Conservation Success Stories, which is a large photographic book.

Finally, two other titles are worth mentioning. We just discovered an important title on environmental history from the University of Oklahoma Press, Prelude to the Dust Bowl: Drought in the Nineteenth-Century Southern Plains, published last year. And many academics will be served by the advice in the forthcoming The Effective Scientist: A Handy Guide to a Successful Academic Career (March) which looks well beyond how to write and publish papers.

As always, if you are looking for a particular title that we do not yet have in our range, or you would like to suggest a title for NHBS to stock, please do get in touch.
