

June 2022 Monthly Catalogue

Welcome to the June 2022 edition of the NHBS Monthly Catalogue, which lists all new titles added to our website in the last month.

There are some great titles on various vertebrate groups. Starting with fish, we have stock of the fourth edition of Europe and Mediterranean Marine Fish Identification Guide, published by Editions Eugen Ulmer. Moving on to mammals, Pelagic Publishing will release The Barbastelle Bat Conservation Handbook while Comstock is publishing the Pocket Guide to the Mammals of Costa Rica, both due in November. Regarding birds, we have two UK-focused books: RSPB ID Spotlight: Ducks, Geese and Swans, due this month from Bloomsbury, and the privately published A Haven for Farmland Birds: The Unexpected Treasures of a Small Patch of Arable Land in the Cambridge Green Belt. Bloomsbury will furthermore publish one foreign guide in November, Birds of Bali, Sumatra and Java, while Low-Carbon Birding, due in September from Pelagic Publishing, examines the impact of international birdwatching.

On the subject of insects and other invertebrates, we have an excellent spread of books. Entomologists can look out for a new handbook from the Royal Entomological Society in July, Volume 9, Part 8: Fungus Gnats \(Diptera: Mycetophilidae, Mycetophilinae\). Other notable insect titles are Discovering Scotland's Butterflies, due in October from NatureBureau; RSPB ID Spotlight: Garden Bugs, due this month from Bloomsbury; and A Photographic Field Guide to the Dragonflies & Damselflies of Singapore, due in October from John Beaufoy. For other invertebrate groups, we have Synopsis of the British Fauna, Volume 63: Marine Gastropods 4: Heterobranchia 1, due this month from the Field Studies Council; A Guide to Land Snails of Australia, due in July from CSIRO; and Earthworms: Photographic Guide to the Species of Northwestern Europe from Dutch publisher Jeugdbondsuitgeverij, which is now in stock.

For botanists we have two noteworthy books. First is Retaining Nature's Little Secrets: A Guide to the Important Plants and Tropical Important Plant Areas of the British Virgin Islands was published by Kew in 2019 but has not been widely publicised. Second is the paperback of The Arbonaut: A Life Discovering the Eighth Continent in the Trees Above Us, due in August from Allen & Unwin.

There are some phenomenal books in the pipeline on the topics of conservation, biodiversity, and other environmental issues. Two new entries in the Ecology, Biodiversity and Conservation series from Cambridge University Press are Impacts of Human Population on Wildlife: A British Perspective, due in June, and Conservation Translocations, due in November. Princeton University Press is publishing The New Natural History of Madagascar in November, a large 2-volume work that is the second edition of The Natural History of Madagascar that was originally published in 2004. Sinauer, meanwhile, is publishing the third edition of its textbook An Introduction to Conservation Biology in June, while CSIRO has announced Wildlife Research in Australia: Practical and Applied Methods for July. Lastly, two titles due in August from Bloomsbury are Wilder: How Rewilding is Transforming Conservation and Changing the World and Philip Lymbery's Sixty Harvests Left: How to Reach a Nature-Friendly Future.

A final smattering of titles cover diverse topics. Oxford University Press will publish Competition Theory in Ecology in September as part of their Oxford Series in Ecology and Evolution. HarperCollins finishes its anniversary reissue of David Attenborough's Life trilogy in November with The Trials of Life: A Natural History of Animal Behaviour. Penguin will publish the paperback of The Dawn of Everything: A New History of Humanity this month. And those looking to make an escape from their armchair or desk will be well served by Bloomsbury's Wildlife Walks: Get Back to Nature at More Than 475 of the UK's Best Wild Places, which is due in August.

As always, if you are looking for a particular title that we do not yet have in our range, or you would like to suggest a title for NHBS to stock, please do get in touch. In the meantime, stay safe and keep well.

Carceral Logics

Human Incarceration and Animal Captivity

Lori Gruen(Editor), Justin F Marceau(Editor)

Carceral logics permeate our thinking about humans and nonhumans. We imagine that greater punishment will reduce crime and make society safer. We hope that more convictions and policing for animal crimes will keep animals safe and elevate their...
